Plan for sewer along U.S. 127

HUSTONVILLE — Efforts are moving forward to bring sewer service to the U.S. 127 corridor south of Junction City.

By providing sewer to homes in and near the Moreland and Hustonville communities, water quality in the Dix River watershed will hopefully be greatly improved, said Bill Payne with the Lincoln County Sanitation District.

Payne told Hustonville City Council members last week that officials have been working for more than a decade to try and improve water quality in the area.

The Environmental Protection Agency first declared the Dix River and its major tributaries to be "impaired watersheds" in 1998. Since then,

Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said Katherine Luttrell of Casey County was traveling north on U.S. 127 in her black pickup truck when Dylana Goatee of 4570 Ky. 2141 pulled into her path at the intersection of U.S.

Lincoln moves to restructure 911 funding

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Lincoln County Fiscal Court moved forward Tuesday with a plan to change how residents fund area 911 service.

Magistrates unanimously passed the first reading of an ordinance that would remove a $3 monthly surcharge currently put on all Lincoln County landline phone bills and replace it with a $2.50 surcharge on all water meters in the county.

The surcharge would be used to fund Lincoln's share of the finances for Bluegrass 911, the regional 911 call center that covers

Lincoln and Garrard counties.

Garrard County Fiscal Court voted Monday to pass the second reading of its ordinance enacting the same policy.

County Attorney Daryl Day, who also serves on the Bluegrass 911 board, said there are only about 5,000 or 6,000 landlines left in Lincoln County, and that number continues to drop every month.

Day estimated at this point about 35-40 percent of county residents have a landline, but the money they pay via their $3 sur-

Fort Logan senior dies after motorcycle crash

By Stephanie Mojica

STANFORD — A 17-year-old Fort Logan High School student died July 5 after a motorcycle crash in the early morning hours, officials said.

Kenneth Creech, who would have been a senior in the fall, was driving his motorcycle on Ky. 501 near Kings Mountain at 1:50 a.m., Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said.

Creech lost control of the motorcycle when he tried to negotiate a curve and was thrown from the vehicle. His head struck a fence post.

Paramedics airlifted Creech to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center in Lexington. He was pronounced dead at 5:08 p.m. July 5, Fayette County Deputy Coroner John McCarty said. The cause of death was a head injury.

A funeral was held for Creech Tuesday at Spurlin Funeral Home.

Creech had a passenger on the motorcycle, who allegedly fled the scene of the crash, Folger said.

As of Monday morning, sheriff's deputies had still not been able to contact Bobby Cutter, whose age they did not know, regarding the crash, Folger said.

Besides having questions about the crash, officials also want to make sure he receives proper medical treatment for any injuries he may have suffered.

Authorities suspect alcohol was a factor in the crash, Folger said.

FCC rule makes free press weaker

Saving the First Amendment in principle sometimes means having to recognize a less-than-perfect application in reality — at least until a better solution comes along.

Courts long have had to balance our privacy rights against the need for searches in criminal investigations, and had to weigh a suspect’s right to a fair trial and unbiased jury against the public’s right to know what is happening in its courtrooms.

We have laws that preserve the right of free expression while acknowledging that the “time, place and manner” of that speech may be restrained at times for a competing good. No campaign rallies at 3 a.m. in a residential neighborhood, for example.

The U.S. Supreme Court’s 2010 decision in Citizens United v. FEC, and its recent ruling striking down a Montana campaign law, permit direct corporate and union spending in state and federal elections. The court said it was upholding the idea that money is speech and that the First Amendment brooked no limitations on political speech just because of big bankrolls.

But as critics have pointed out, upholding that principle of unfettered free expression also opened the legal floodgates to a torrent of spending — and to the potential for elections-for-sale. Possible counters to those ills, such as total transparency on spending, necessarily affect another valued First Amendment tenet: anonymous political speech.

In last week’s final decisions of the 2011-2012 Supreme Court term, yet another First Amendment conundrum appeared. The justices refused to hear an appeal of a 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling, in Prometheus Radio Project v. FCC, upholding a 1975 Federal Communications Commission ban on broadcasters owning a newspaper in any of the 20 biggest media markets. The FCC rule also precludes owning multiple TV or radio outlets in the same cities.

News media representatives argue that today’s free press may well not survive economic challenges and new digital competitors without consolidating to cut costs. If the original idea behind the rule was to preserve and encourage multiple news sources and voices in communities, they maintain it’s no longer needed in today’s media-saturated environment of traditional news providers, cable and satellite TV and unlimited information on the Web.

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Gene Policinski
Guest columnist

A financially stronger owner of TV, radio and newspaper outlets has access to more resources to report the news. That’s no small asset in an era of newsrooms so shrunken that we must worry about the ability of newspapers and local broadcasters to fulfill their constitutional role of a free press as a “watchdog on government,” opponents of the FCC ban say.

On the other side, opponents of consolidation argue that, without the rule, a handful of major corporations could control all of the news media in our largest cities — and perhaps dominate the national news scene, as well.

Huge corporations and media conglomerates already own too many newspapers and TV stations even under the existing the “cross-ownership” ban, they say. Consolidated ownership would simply result in even more “homogenized” news products, they add, and encourage absentee decision-making about local news coverage.

The harsh reality is that for large to medium-size newspapers a 100-plus-year-old revenue formula based on a combination of advertising and circulation has disappeared with the rise of Web-based advertising and digital news competitors.

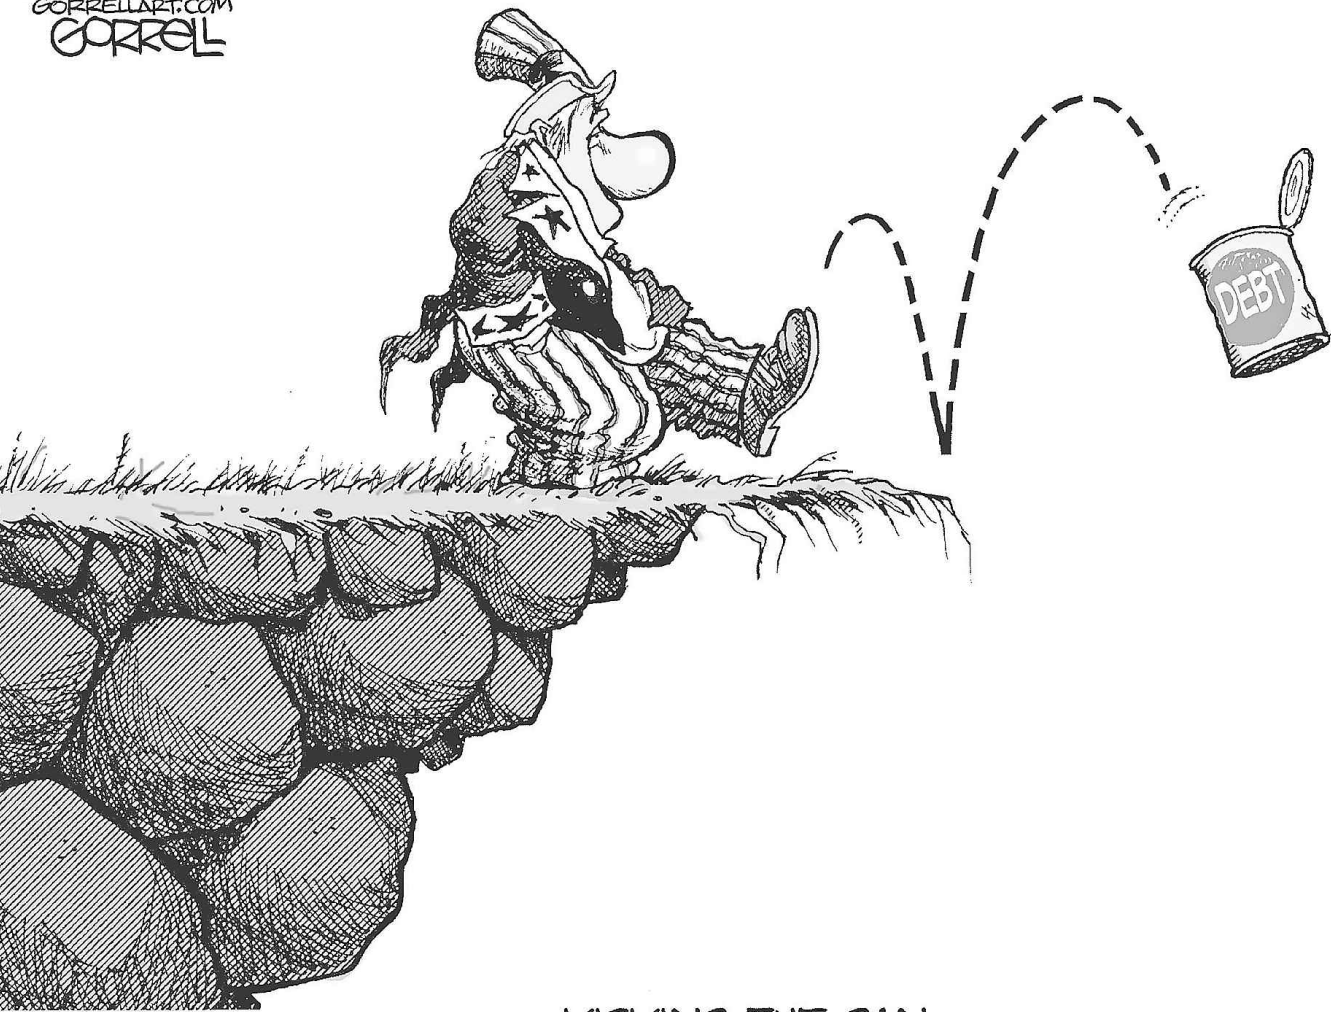

Newspapers and even some broadcast outlets in major cities are struggling, if not failing, and tens of thousands of newsroom jobs have disappeared in a decade. In general, online media have yet to develop the same expertise and scope of news coverage or reach into the community. Simply continuing a rule created when newspapers generated generous profits ignores that reality.

If recent past is any prologue, risking the future of a free press in a hardscrabble economic marketplace — even for the laudable goal of ensuring multiple voices in a community — may well mean fewer news outlets in the end, fewer journalists holding public officials accountable.

An even weaker free press would be a result no rulemaker intended.

KICKING THE CAN

‘Unscrupulous marketers’ going after veterans’ education benefits

Business forced to stop deceptive practices, GI Bill intentions protected

I would not be where I am today had my family not benefited from the GI Bill. After returning from service in Germany, my father put himself through law school at night while working as a public school teacher and football coach by day. The GI Bill allowed my father to build a brighter future for our family.

Since 2008, when Congress enacted the Post 9/11 GI Bill, veterans have had access to billions of dollars in additional educational benefits. While providing an invaluable service, the Post 9/11 GI Bill has also made our service men and women a target of some unscrupulous marketers tied to the for-profit college industry, which may be more concerned about getting its hands on GI Bill funds than in educating servicemembers and their families.

The for-profit college industry’s aggressive and deceptive recruitment of veterans continues to be a top concern of mine as I lead a 30-state bipartisan working group examining potential abuses within the industry. I’m pleased to report a recent victory for veterans against these predatory practices.

On June 27, my office filed a settlement in Franklin Circuit Court on behalf of 20 states against QuinStreet, Inc., the owner and operator of the website GIBill.com. As part of this settlement, QuinStreet will turn over GIBill.com to the Department of Veterans Affairs, which will use the website to promote the GI Bill program and educate servicemembers about their benefits.

Additionally, the company will cease using the term GIBill in any of its domain names, provide disclaimers on its websites and it will pay $2.5 million to the states to settle allegations of deceptive marketing and advertising. Kentucky will receive $325,000.

We began looking at QuinStreet’s GIBill.com nearly a year ago. With images of men and women in uniform, GIBill.com looked like it could be owned or operated by the U.S. government. A review of more than 8,000 emails to and from California-based QuinStreet made it obvious that a significant number of individuals thought they were communicating with the government. Some emails even contained Social Security numbers and requests from veterans about Veterans Affairs’ accounts and benefits.

We were also troubled by the colleges listed as “GI Bill Schools.” All were for-profit schools, giving the impression that those were the only schools that accepted GI Bill benefits.

GIBill.com wasn’t a website designed to assist veterans; it was designed to prey on them and generate leads for for-profit college recruiters. QuinStreet’s actions were unconscionable, deceptive and violated our consumer protection laws.

Our veterans fight for these benefits. They defend us for these benefits. And like my father, they can build a better life with these benefits.

I appreciate the assistance we’ve received on this issue from many of my colleagues, including Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan and

Jack Conway
Ky. Attorney General

“Our veterans fight for these benefits. They defend us for these benefits. And like my father, they can build a better life with these benefits.”

Delaware Attorney General Beau Biden, who is also a veteran.

I am also grateful for the support of Senators Tom Harkin, Dick Durbin, Kay Hagan and Richard Blumenthal, the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau’s Holly Petraeus, all of whom were by my side as I announced this multistate settlement.

This is an issue of public trust for consumers and veterans. Be assured, we will be monitoring the terms of this settlement. If QuinStreet doesn’t comply, there will be consequences.

I hope you will join me in giving thanks to our soldiers and veterans who have risked their lives to defend our independence.

Kings Mountain news

By Violet Bell/Beverly Murphy

We trust that everyone enjoyed their 4th of July holiday last week celebrating our nation's birthday safely. As everyone knows, it has been so hot and dry that several communities canceled their fireworks or postponed them until a later date.

Judy Stull's daughter Jennifer from Georgetown, spent the holiday weekend with Judy and visited the Lincoln County Fair for the first time in several years. They were also accompanied by Judy's granddaughter Shelby.

Pleasant Point Baptist Church has been having their Vacation Bible School this week and it will run through July 13. The hours are from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. each night.

I traveled to Huntingburg, Ind., this past weekend to spend the holiday with my son Kelly and his wife Jennifer, his son Devin, and his daughter Ashlyn. We enjoyed our visit so much.

I spent Monday with Violet Bell running errands, shopping, eating out and most important, talking. We do a lot of that!! She is doing well and still misses all of her Kings Mountain friends.

If you have any Kings Mountain news, please call 365-2991.

An encouraging word Change is a reality of life

By Howard Coop

The day, like most days, passed quickly. It was a beautiful day, and I was involved in numerous necessary and pleasant activities.

In preparation for that day, I had prepared, in some detail, a rather long to-do list, and I had carefully prioritized those things I wished to accomplish before the day ended. That two-part list consisted of some things I considered "big" and, therefore, "important." They were first on the list. Also, that list consisted of some other things that I considered "little" and, therefore, somewhat less "important." Of course, those things were last on the list.

At the end of a busy day, I paused for a moment to look back at the accomplishments that had been made. At once, I realized with a feeling of regret that the day had not gone exactly the way I had hoped and planned for it to go. Some of the things that I had planned to do were accomplished, but other things on my list were not accomplished. Even more regretful was the fact that among the unaccomplished items were a number of the "big" things to which I had given top priority. But as the day had gone by, it had become absolutely necessary for me to do a number of the "little" things on that list and leave some of the "big" things on it undone. As the day progressed, it became increasingly clear that what I thought was unimportant became, as a result of changing circumstances, important; therefore priorities had to be rearranged and significant adjustments had to be made.

Anatole France, the French author of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century, has been quoted as saying, "We are never two minutes the same." Change is a reality of life. Frequently, things happen, sometimes without warning, and situations change abruptly that require major adjustments to be made and priorities to be rearranged. In a moment and for a variety of reasons, things that seemed big and important can become little and insignificant and little things can become important.

Denny named Miss Teen

By Nancy Leedy

Briana Paige Denny may have been contestant No. 2 in the 2012 Lincoln County Fair Miss Teen contest, but she was the No. 1 entry in the judges' eyes, being picked out of a field of nine to win the title.

Denny, 13, was crowned the 2012 Miss Teen before a large crowd at the Teddy Gilbert Pageant Pavilion last Tuesday evening. Denny, dressed in a fluorescent green formal, accepted her crown, sash and $50 cash award from 2011 winner Dakota Roberts.

Along with her title and prizes, Denny, the daughter of Laura Denny and Jonathan Denny, received an all-expense paid trip to the state pageant, including a $100 clothing allowance.

Each of the Miss Teen contestants was asked to name her three wishes in life during an onstage interview, and Denny, who will be a freshman at Lincoln County High School, had one wish granted that evening, to win Lincoln County Miss Teen.

Her other two wishes were to be a UK dancer and to have her dad home every night because he works away.

First runner-up in the contest was Mary Gabryelle Gabriel, 14, the daughter of Scott and Amy Isaacs and Philip Gabriel of Stanford. Gabriel, who will also be a freshman at LCHS, received a $25 cash award and silver as first runner-up. Her three wishes were for softball to be brought back to the Olympics, to one day play softball at the University of Alabama and that her little brother wasn't so annoying.

In addition to the winner and runner-up, a non-finalist interview winner was also selected out of the field of contestants. Jaylan Sowders, the daughter of Vanessa Hampton and Jeff Sowders of Stanford, was selected for that honor. The 14-year-old LCHS freshman said her three wishes were to become a veterinarian, to participate in a mission trip and to play college softball.

Know the warning signs of heat illness

By James A. Turpin, M.D.

As the days turn increasingly hotter, heat illness is just one of summer's many dangers. Heat-related illness can be caused by overexposure to the sun or situations involving extreme heat. Young children and the elderly have the highest risk of heat illness, though everyone can be affected.

Heat cramps are characterized by muscle spasms, usually in the legs and stomach. To treat a heat cramp, have the individual rest in a cool place and sip small amounts of cool water, juice or sports drink. If the individual is unconscious, do not give liquids. Gently stretch and massage the affected area, and check for signs of heat stroke or exhaustion. Do not administer salt tablets.

Heat exhaustion and heat stroke are much more serious illnesses. Symptoms of early heat exhaustion include headache, dizziness, weakness, a feeling of exhaustion, heavy sweating, nausea, giddiness and skin that is pale, flushed, cool or moist. Symptoms of a heat stroke, the latest stage of heat illness, include a rapid and weak pulse, vomiting, increased body temperature, rapid or shallow breathing and skin that is flushed, hot or dry.

An individual with any symptoms of heat exhaustion or stroke should seek cool shelter immediately. If conscious, non-caffeinated, non-alcoholic fluids should be consumed. Apply cool, wet cloths or water mist while fanning the person. For late stage heat stroke symptoms, position cold packs on the wrists, ankles, groin, neck and armpits. Call 911 if symptoms include cool, moist or pale skin, rapid pulse, elevated or lowered blood pressure, nausea, loss of consciousness, vomiting or a high body temperature.

When the summer heats up, remain indoors as much as possible to prevent illness. If you have to be outside, keep yourself hydrated with non-caffeinated, non-alcoholic fluids, take frequent breaks from activity and stay in the shade when you can. Heat cramps, exhaustion and stroke can result in serious symptoms that could potentially be life-threatening.

Dr. James A. Turpin is medical director of Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital's Emergency Department and Emergency Department chair at Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center.

News from Fairview Baptist Church

By Shelby Lakes
On Sunday, Bro. Johnny Baker's message was about worship and the holiness of God, and referred to Revelation 19:1-8. These verses depict worship in Heaven, which will be our main activity when we leave this earth, he said.
On earth, many have lost the awe and reverence to God. But worship is of the greatest of importance, Bro. Johnny said. He quoted several bible passages that encourage worship: Psalm 29:2; Psalm 95:6; Psalm 132:7; and Hebrews 1:6.
Why do we not worship like we should? Bro. Johnny asked. We need to love the one (God) who wrote the love letter (the bible) to us.
We cannot understand everything about God, Bro. Johnny said, and had the congregation recite, "You are God, and I am not." He said we are living in a society that wants to cover everything up. "Get real with yourselves and God," he said. Worship isn't about the songs or the meals. We need to raise praise to the God of glory. He said the El Salvador team is about to see worship without the glaze of the dinners and other distractions over it. Have you had a burning bush moment, he asked, and cried out to see God in a miraculous way?

Real worship leads to service, and America needs God's work today, Bro. Johnny said. It is up to Christians to turn our nation around. (End of sermon summary)
Celebrating birthdays were Lee Burton, Barbara Young, Jone Anderson, Christine McKinney, Edith Zwahlen, Ange Miracle and Jeff McGuffey.
Celebrating their anniversaries were Raleigh and Sybil Stonecypher, Barbara and Keith Young, Warren and Betty Burton, Mike and Mary Catherine Singleton, and Teresa and Philip Baldwin.
115 attended Sunday school, 183 were present for the worship service.

Highland Methodist Church news

Sunday, July 1 news:
Sunday, July 1, was an extremely hot, summer day; however, services at the Highland United Methodist Church were held in a nice, cool sanctuary with a warm Christian atmosphere.
Some of our faithful members were absent due to some illnesses, but others had company or were absent for other reasons.
Peter Langford and Phyllis Young were both reported to be not feeling well.
Several persons on the prayer list will be undergoing surgery this week: Inez Stubblefield (Tenn.), Harold Reed (Mississippi) and Lisa Johnson.
Jo Ann Elliott stated that she was feeling well but will be taking radiation treatments, soon. Doug May's mother visited with Doug last week, but she is still having health issues.
Chaz Garcia shared a health concern of a cousin.
A good health report was shared concerning Amy Adams' stress tests. The congregation was happy to see Ron and Ellen Hunkins in worship Sunday. Ron is still not well but is somewhat improved.
Our visitor for Sunday was Henry Blanks from Memphis, Tenn. Henry is originally from Moreland and he and his wife, Nancy, were in for the Fox Family reunion. The Scilleys and others are always so happy to see Henry on the July 4 weekend.
Rebecca Garcia was our birthday person during Sunday school time.
Our congregational singing was done with great zest and enthusiasm especially during the singing of an old hymn, "Dwelling in Beulah Land." Susie Langford brought out that she still remembers how, years ago, Charles Young would sing out on a certain base section containing the words, "Praise God!"
We continued to praise God as Dawn Cheetham sang a special song entitled, "My Father's Eyes."
Several people chose to purchase one or more of the fifteen, new, red hymnals which are to be labeled in memory of or in honor of loved ones.
Tyler McGuffey read our scripture from John 8:31-36. Emphasis was upon living free in lieu of wanting free living which is a great part of today's society.
A short choir practice was held after worship. The choir is working on some selections for our fifth Sunday service, July 29.
Sunday, July 8 news:
On Sunday, July 8, at the Highland United Methodist Church there were several prayer requests along with several praise health reports.
Peter Langford reported that his brother now has pneumonia. Also, Dart Davis was at home recovering from double pneumonia, and Ron Hunkins reported that he was improving but is to see two different cancer doctors this week.

Jo Ann Elliott is taking daily radiation treatments and is doing well. Harold Reed in Mississippi had ankle surgery on Friday, July 6. He returned home the same day and is doing as well as expected to this point. Beverly Young reported that, according to doctors at the Vanderbilt Hospital, Hank Senior's tumor is supposed to be "dead." Kenneth Sims shared that his uncle, Lyndell Sims, had had a heart attack and had had bypass surgery but was going to soon be returning to his home.
Nancy McGuffey stated that her husband, Orville, had a good non-cancer report last week.
Dawn Cheetham has reported that her co-worker, Inez Stubblefield, in Tennessee has really done well with her surgery.
A couple of announcements were that next Sunday's song selections are to be announced by persons from the congregation. These are to be songs that represent their faith, and on the evening of July 29, at 6:30 p.m. there will be a viewing of a film on John Wesley.
Different sections of the scripture, Luke 15:1-10, were read by Peter Langford and Tyler McGuffey. Emphasis was upon the joy of recovering something lost which cannot be compared with the joy in Heaven over one finding salvation through Jesus Christ.
Our special song, "No Tears in Heaven", was sung by the congregation.
We were glad to see Heloise Reed's granddaughter, Morgan, in attendance. Morgan also brought a friend.
Come and worship at the Highland United Methodist Church on Sundays at 10 and 11 a.m. where one can find the way, the truth and the life which is Jesus. No one comes to the Father except through Jesus. (John 14:6).

Stringer, Harris win royal titles

By Nancy Leedy

The Lincoln County Fair got off to a royal start with two queens crowned on opening night – Miss Lincoln County Fair and Miss Lincoln County.

As has been the tradition since the Lincoln Fair Board opened the pageant to contestants statewide in 1997, the Fair has offered two crowns, with the Miss Lincoln County Fair title open to all contestants while the Miss Lincoln County title could only be won by a Lincoln County resident.

Shelby Elaine Stringer, 16, the daughter of Barry and Susan Stringer of Liberty, was selected last Monday night to wear the title of Miss Lincoln County Fair.

The petite blonde’s grace and poise onstage helped her win over the judges out of a field of 12 contestants.

Barbara Ann Harris shared the winner’s spotlight with Stringer at the Teddy Gilbert Pageant Pavilion by claiming the 2012 Miss Lincoln County title.

Harris, 17, the daughter of Jr. and Cheri Harris of Waynesburg, commanded attention in front of the judges in her form-fitting turquoise gown set off by her dark blonde hair and golden tan.

As Miss Lincoln County Fair, Stringer was awarded a $100 cash award, silver, a crown pin, flowers, sash and a crown. She also received $50 plus room expense for when she represents Lincoln County at the annual Miss Kentucky County Fair contest held in January.

Stringer, who was crowned by 2011 fair queen Brooke Cable, was also the evening gown preliminary winner.

Harris received her Miss Lincoln County crown from 2011 winner Morgan Reed. Along with her title, she received a $150 cash award, crown pin, flowers, sash and crown. She will represent Lincoln County on the opening day of the Kentucky State Fair in August.

Amanda Curry Collier, 21, was named as the first runner-up in the contest. Collier, the daughter of Todd and Lorrie Collier of Harrodsburg, received a $60 cash prize and silver as the first runner-up. The runner-up award was Collier’s second honor of the evening. Just prior to the runner-up announcement, Collier was presented the swimsuit preliminary award.

Second runner-up in the contest was Ashley Eliza Johnson of Somerset. Johnson, 16, the daughter of Stephen and Alesa Johnson, received $40 and silver for being named second runner-up.

Each of the contestants was introduced to the crowd and judges in casual attire then brought back to begin onstage judging in the swimsuit competition. The interview process of the competition was conducted behind the scenes before the contestants took the stage. The final area of competition was evening gown.

Erica Briann Stormes of Shelbyville impressed the judges in the pre-pageant interview evaluation to earn her the interview award. Stormes, 20, is the daughter of Keith and Tonya Stormes.

The remaining contestants in the 2012 Miss Lincoln County Fair Pageant were: Emily Christeen Mitchell, 18, daughter of Frankie and Carrie Mitchell, Nicholasville; Morgan Reed, 18, daughter of Jeff and Teresa Reed, Stanford;

Anna Rachel Cullen, 19, daughter of Beth and Terry Stucker, Shelbyville; Katie Marie Luttrell, 18, daughter of Thomas and Laressa Luttrell, Shelbyville; Hannah Victoria Barker, 19, daughter of Tina and Randy Barker, Somerset; Kendra Lynn Hyden, 18, daughter of Kenny and Jennifer Hyden, Somerset; and Lyndsey Cook, 17, daughter of Tina Horn, Danville.

Court votes against spending money on beach

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

CRAB ORCHARD — The Lincoln County Fiscal Court is washing its hands of the unfinished beach on Cedar Creek Lake.

Judge-Executive Jim Adams told magistrates Tuesday that it could cost around $260,000 to install the necessary facilities and get the beach into operating condition.

It could cost about $30,000 per year after that to maintain the beach and employ lifeguards, which is required by law, Adams added.

A state-licensed engineer estimated the probable costs of opening and maintaining the beach for the fiscal court.

Magistrates David Faulkner, Johnnie Padgett and Joe Stanley agreed the county didn't have anywhere near enough money to go through with the project.

The court voted to send a letter to the Department of Fish and Wildlife, which owns the lake and a 300-foot buffer around it, informing it the court will not be renewing a lease on the beach.

Faulkner said even if the county had the money, he doesn't think it would be wise to spend money improving land the county doesn't own and adding to the county's potential liabilities.

Padgett said the lake had always been intended for fishing, not swimming.

"I feel sure we can't spend a quarter of a million dollars out there," Padgett said.

The fiscal court initially leased the land where the beach is located from the Department of Fish and Wildlife beginning in 2005, but members of the court at the time failed to understand the regulations and requirements placed on public beaches, Judge-Executive Jim Adams said.

The fiscal court put in sand to create a beach, but didn't have the money for other expensive requirements like bathrooms and lifeguards, Adams said.

The Department of Health and Human Services forced closure of the beach when it didn't meet those requirements, but people still regularly swim at the beach despite signs prohibiting its use.

In late June, Fish and Wildlife began enforcing the beach closure, with officers visiting the beach regularly to tell swimmers they had to leave.

Adams said the enforcement was a reaction to negative press about the beach that caught the eye of Fish and Wildlife.

A man recently got in trouble for leaving children unattended at the beach, and in May an infant at the beach got water in its lungs and nearly died.

"Fish and Wildlife is feeling the heat because they actually own the lake," Adams said.

Lincoln County Attorney Daryl Day said the beach is in bad condition and shouldn't be used by anybody.

Day said a Fish and Wildlife officer has told him based on the kinds of things that he knows have gone down on that beach, he "wouldn't walk across there in flip-flops, let alone bare feet."

"I think at the beginning, it was a good idea. ... It was a public swimming place, which we don't have any of in Lincoln County," Day said. "It's just the cost of maintaining it is so prohibitive."

The county's original lease on the beach expired in 2009. Magistrates agreed the county has no further responsibilities for the beach.

Adams said potential solutions Fish and Wildlife could pursue to end use of the beach include moving in large rocks or installing a fishing spot that would prevent people from using the area to swim.

charges makes up about 70-80 percent of Lincoln's 911 funding.

Of those who do still have landlines, many of them are seniors living on fixed incomes, Day said.

"We are unfairly placing the burden on older people in our county," he said. "I think that this fee passes that (911 cost) back out, spreads it more evenly among a greater number of people in Lincoln County."

Records from Bluegrass 911 show there were a total of 12,617 active landlines in Lincoln and Garrard counties in May. That number is down more than 4 percent from 13,194 active landlines in July 2011.

The loss of landline customers is an ongoing trend that has been affecting Bluegrass 911 funding for years.

According to a reporter's August 2009 analysis of Bluegrass 911 financial records, the number of landline customers in Lincoln County declined by as much as 20 percent between 2005 and 2008.

Lincoln County Judge-Executive Jim Adams said there are currently around 17,300 water meters in use in Lincoln and Garrard counties.

That means Bluegrass 911 would receive about $43,000 per month (more than $515,000 per year) from a $2.50 monthly water meter surcharge.

Unlike landlines, water meter use is steady and will increase if more people move into Lincoln County, Adams said.

"Water meters will be tied to growth," he said. "As our needs grow, as our responsibilities grow with 911, there should be a revenue source there, I hope."

Magistrate David Faulkner, who also serves on the Bluegrass 911 board along with Day and Adams, said he's been watching as income for the 911 center shrinks along with the number of landlines in the county.

"The fact of the matter is 911 will close," he said. "It'll close its doors in a year if we don't do something."

Faulkner said another, less desirable option for covering the cost of 911 service is to pay for it out of the county's general fund.

"But we don't put any general fund money into it now," he said. "It's self-sustaining, but it's getting ready to be not self-sustaining."

Magistrate Johnnie Padgett said whether the county uses a 911 surcharge or brings in additional revenue another way and pays for 911 service from the general fund, there's really no way around the cost of providing 911 service.

"Taxpayers are going to pay this either way, no matter what," he said.

Magistrate Joe Stanley said he is concerned about people who have multiple water meters having to pay multiple surcharges. Day said he would look into the possibilities for preventing people from paying the surcharge more than once, but that it might not be possible since the county's different water associations don't share customer information.

"It's a valid concern, Joe," Day said. "We can see if there's a way we can do that."

One member of the audience said he was concerned that the court was removing the fee it collects on landlines, but people with cell phones would still be paying to support the 911 center.

Cell phone companies pay about 70 cents per cell phone to the state for 911 service, but less than half of the money paid for cell phones in Lincoln County comes back to fund Bluegrass 911.

Day acknowledged that the monthly fee on cell phones would not be going away, but said the county has no control over the fees imposed by the state on cell phones.

Adams said cell phone fees previously helped sustain Bluegrass 911 even as landlines disappeared because cell phone use was growing.

But now, the county's cell phone market is "pretty much saturated" and cell phone fees are no longer enough to make up for the lost landlines, Adams said.

At a Bluegrass 911 board meeting earlier this month, Director Russ Clark said the switch from landlines to water meters in Lincoln and Garrard counties is expected to bring in about $30,000 more per year.

Day said the extra income should be enough to cover the costs of maintaining updated equipment and software at the 911 center, as well as rising 911 employment costs like healthcare and retirement, for at least five years.

"We are hopeful that that fee will be in place at this amount for five — maybe more — years before there's any discussion of an increase," Day said.

Adams said as battles in Frankfort fail year after year to change how well cell phones fund 911 services, it became necessary for Bluegrass 911 to search out alternative sources of income.

"Let's face it — AT&T has a lot of lobbyists," he said. "We have to look for revenues in the fairest place we can."

"I don't think there's going to be anything life-threatening from what I've been told," Folger said.

Stanford EMS, Lincoln County EMS, state police and Lincoln County firefighters from Station No. 3 also responded to the scene.

Firefighters began routing traffic around the scene via Ky. 2141 shortly after 9 a.m. The scene was cleared later Monday morning.

out the Main Street Program budget for the new fiscal year, transferring much of its budget to the Arts and Music Program.

Miracle said the Main Street Program had "basically been reduced to $10,000 a year for basically picking out flowers for Main Street," and the money was better spent by putting it into the Arts and Music Program.

Miracle said rumors have been going around that Miller was fired from her position with the Main Street Program, but those rumors are false. Miller was OK with the move, he said.

"She and I had talked about this on three different occasions," he said. "She helped influence this decision."

Miracle told Stanford City Council members July 5 that Miller had done a great job in her role.

"She was doing fine with the Main Street Program," he said. "It's just there was nothing really going on there."

Neither Miller nor Miracle knew if any Main Street board members had accepted the invitation to join the Arts and Music Program board yet.

Miller, who is also executive director of the Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber is taking over organization of the upcoming Run for Independence 5K on July 14, which had been a duty of the Main Street Program.

"I'm basically just refocusing my energy to try to make our chamber even better than it had been," Miller said.

Miller has scheduled a thank-you lunch for her former board members on July 12.

County upgrading courthouse doors

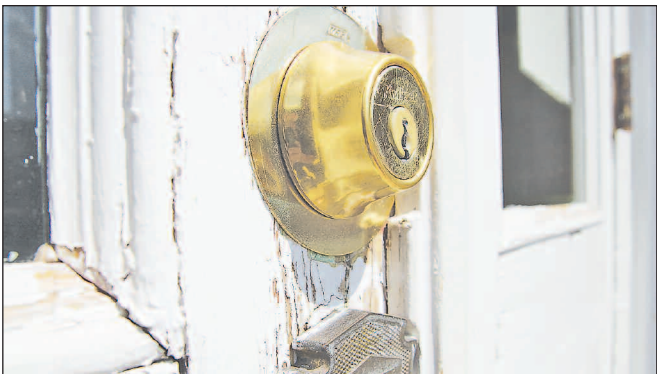

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — The old Lincoln County Courthouse is getting a new makeover with some very old materials.

The three main entrances on the courthouse are being replaced with doors made from reclaimed cyprus wood that is likely about the same age as the courthouse, said Steve Lucas, owner of the architectural company Helm Street Blues.

A green energy grant Lincoln County has received through the federal stimulus program is paying for new, energy-efficient entrances to be installed on the courthouse.

Lucas said the new entrances on the south, west and east sides of the courthouse will still look almost exactly like they did when they were originally built.

"We try to be true to the roots ... and keep it as original as possible," Lucas said. "If we do our job right, people will be able to go into the courthouse and not know it's been redone. It'll just look like the doors are in super shape."

Helm Street Blues, a Stanford-based company, is in charge of the project, which has a total price tag of $46,665.28.

Judge-Executive Jim Adams said every company working on the project is locally based. Schuler Custom Wood is crafting the six replacement doors for about $29,000; Stanford Glass and Mirror is in charge of installing new "thermopane" glass for $6,000; David Bastin Painting is handling renovation and repainting of the entrance-ways for $8,100; and Helm Street Blues is getting a $3,200 design fee.

The new doors will look just like the current doors, but better.

"Those (old) doors have been there I think since 1909 and those doors are pretty much in shambles," he said.

The reclaimed cyprus wood the doors will be made out of is salvaged from river mud in southern states like Florida and Louisiana.

Lucas said around a hundred years ago, loggers would float cyprus logs down rivers to processing facilities, but some logs would get snared and dragged down along the way.

Now companies go in, find the old logs and pull them out for use.

"(The logs) are actually first-growth cyprus wood. It's virgin timber that's never been used," Lucas said. "It's almost like you cloned something from 100 years ago and brought it into modern times."

Lucas said cyprus is a naturally rot-resistant and resilient wood that makes good doors. It's the kind of wood that could have been used on the courthouse when it was first built.

Besides the new doors, the windows around the doors will also be upgraded to be more energy efficient, without changing their look.

While the original glass — bubbles and all — will remain in place on the outside, Lucas said the thermopanes will be installed on the inside of the entrances, preventing drafts without making a noticeable change in appearance.

On the east-side entrance where a handicap ramp has been installed, the door will be made handicap accessible via a motion sensor that will open the door as someone approaches.

Lucas said the cyprus wood is more expensive than other options, but the price is worth it for preserving the courthouse and avoiding chopping down any new forests.

Because the courthouse entranceways project only takes up a little more than a third of the $125,000 federal grant, Lucas said there are also plans to upgrade the ventilation systems in the county clerk's office to make it more energy-efficient.

Because the project is funded by stimulus dollars, all the materials are required to be made in America.

"We're trying to use local people and we're definitely using all-American products," Lucas said.

Jail gets new backup generator

Diesel-powered unit will keep air flowing, computers running

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — The Lincoln County Jail has a new backup generator that will help it keep things running whenever the power goes out.

Jailer David Gooch said the new diesel-powered generator puts out 50 kilowatts — more than double the old gasoline-powered generator's 20-kilowatt load.

That extra power means when the power goes out, the jail can keep its ventilation and computer systems running, along with emergency lighting, Gooch said.

In May, Gooch told the Lincoln County Fiscal Court that the jail "lucked out" when the old generator started for an inspection and that it couldn't provide enough power to keep all the essential systems running.

Gooch said the new generator should last for decades, and will definitely last for the life of the current jail facility.

"It's going to be able to generate much more power and it's going to be able to stay on much longer," he said.

Gooch said the jail experiences power outages much like any house does — a couple times a year it may lose power for a few minutes or a couple hours, and on rarer occasions power may be knocked out for a day or longer.

Having a backup generator in place is especially important at the jail because the facility's locked-down situation means heating, ventilation and air condition is essential, Gooch said.

"You can't just open a window," he said. "It's not just a matter of giving the prisoners air conditioning."

Computer systems at the jail like the victim notification system and fingerprint databases are important to keep running 24/7 as well, he added.

Judge-Executive Jim Adams said the new generator cost $17,400. Other options were considered, including natural gas and propane generators, but both would have been very expensive to move if the jail ever relocated. The diesel generator is very portable, he said.

Adams said the old generator wasn't worth anything and was scrapped by the county.

Gooch said he's very thankful to Adams and the Lincoln Road Department for helping make the new generator a reality. The Road Department hauled off the old generator and installed the new one, which saved the jail a lot of money, he said.

Lincoln County Jailer David Gooch leans on the jail's new diesel-powered backup generator outside the jail last week. The new unit has more than twice the power of the jail's old generator, which didn't have enough juice to power all the jail's essential systems, Gooch said.

Lincoln Sparx finish fifth in AAU nationals

By Nancy Leedy

The Lincoln County Sparx girls basketball team more than held its own in the recent 2012 AAU Girls Basketball National Tournament in Nashville, Tenn., with the local squad placing fifth in 5th Grade Division II out of a pool of 32 teams.

The Lincoln fifth-grade team, led by head coach Pops Stevenson, lost only one game during the five-day tournament June 24-29, making it to the Elite 8 before bowing to the defending national champion Jacksonville (Fla.) Lady Rams.

Lincoln qualified for nationals by winning the Kentucky 5th Grade AAU championship and went 6-1 at nationals, bowing out of title contention in a 50-39 loss to the Lady Rams. Lincoln went on to claim the fifth-place trophy by beating 2019 Team Elite - Blakley (Ind.) 31-30.

"We are so proud of our girls, they represented our county and state really well on and off the court," said Sparx assistant coach Darin Lane. "It was a fun-filled week in Nashville ... we really feel that they could have played with any team in the tournament. Many of the other teams' coaches came and watched (scouted) our games and thought we were one of the teams to beat."

"Our girls finished 6-1 and brought back a really nice fifth place national trophy," he said. "... which we thought was really great considering our team is only made up of in-county kids and most of the other 82 (division 1-3) teams were made up of girls picked from either the whole state or a region in their state."

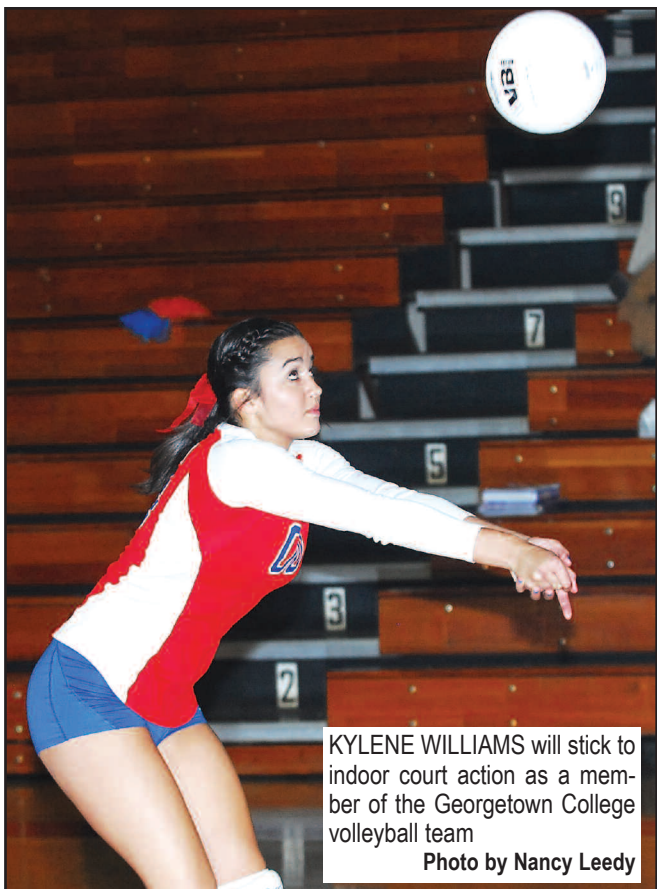

The members of the Sparx AAU team are: Maddy Boyle, Sara Mae Bullock, Allison Cummins, Emma King, Anna Lane, Kallie Phillips, Trinity Shearer, Haley Southerland and Kaitlyn Wilks. Assisting Stevenson in coaching the team were Darin Lane, Eric King, Rebecca Shearer and Brian Shearer.

Lincoln never led in the championship bracket quarterfinal matchup with Jacksonville, falling behind 16-8 in the first quarter. The Sparx fought their way back to get within two points of the Lady Rams but would get no closer as Jacksonville pulled away to get the 50-39 win.

The loss dropped the Sparx into the consolation bracket for fifth- through eighth-place. Lincoln defeated the Alabama Starz 34-28 to make the fifth-place game against 2019 Team Elite - Blakley (Ind.), a team the Sparx had edged past in pool play. Lincoln used its press to outscore the Indiana squad 13-3 in the first quarter, but Team Elite wouldn't back down. Indiana came back to take the lead in the fourth quarter. Lincoln regained the lead late by sinking a free throw to go on top 31-30. Indiana twice had opportunities to win the game only to have the Sparx defense deny their shots to claim the fifth-place trophy.

Williams to play volleyball for Georgetown

By Nancy Leedy

Kylene Williams loves tennis. During her four years at Lincoln County High School, she ranked as one of the Lady Patriots' top players and had aspirations of playing collegiate tennis.

However, that isn't going to happen. The recent Lincoln County High School graduate waved good-bye to the thought of collegiate tennis by turning her attention to volleyball.

Williams, who played both tennis and volleyball at LCHS, made her decision official by signing to play volleyball for Georgetown College.

"At first I always wanted to play tennis, but since I've been playing it my whole life - and volleyball only for a little while - I wanted to see how far my newly found volleyball skills would take me," said Williams. "I love the sport so much. I have my whole life to play tennis, volleyball is different."

While getting an education was foremost on Williams' mind when choosing a college home, she said being able to continue with her athletics was a major factor.

"I probably wouldn't have gone to a school where I couldn't continue with either sport," she said. "Volleyball is such a passion of mine; I honestly could not see myself ending it in high school."

Williams, who plans to major in biology at Georgetown, had several colleges to choose from when trying to narrow down her choices, including Bellarmine University, Western Kentucky University, Brescia University and Lindsey Wilson College.

"It came down to Georgetown and Brescia," Williams said. "I just had to go with my gut. Georgetown was the first college I visited and I believe that was for a reason. I love the school, the campus, the people and the town. Everything about the college just felt right to me."

It didn't hurt that she fell in love with the Tiger volleyball team.

Shark Warren took to the pits, below, to compete in the doubles division of the Horseshoe Pitch event. The doubles competition was won by Jody Dishman and Don Phelps. The Lincoln County Fair's slate of sporting events also included an Open Cornhole Tournament. WILLIAMS

From B1

Georgetown came down to the volleyball team. I went up there to practice with the team, and the girls were all extremely welcoming, helpful, and nice,” she said. “That was the moment I knew I belonged there.”

Williams says that the success of the Tigers volleyball program also factored in her decision. Georgetown has gone 90-33 under coach Nick Griffin the past three seasons, including finishing as NAIA tournament runner-up in 2009. Georgetown has become a regular in the NAIA post-season tournament, participating in 13 of the last 19 tournaments.

Williams, who lives in Stanford with her grandparents John and Linda Oros, expects to start out on the Georgetown junior varsity team her freshman year. But she feels like she can be an impact player and possibly move up to varsity later in the season.

“Yeah, I think so,” she said, “especially looking back on my high school career as a middle hitter.”

Williams has yet to receive a conditioning program from Georgetown to help prepare her for the upcoming season but that hasn’t curbed her enthusiasm for getting to play volleyball at the next level.

“I’m nervous and excited,” she said. “Playing college volleyball will be so surreal! I’m ready to learn and better my skills. I can’t wait to take on this long-time dream of mine.”

Kentucky Afield Outdoors: Better accuracy from bolt-action rifles

FRANKFORT, Ky. - For many firearms deer hunters in Kentucky, the tool of choice is the bolt-action centerfire rifle.

With a little gunsmithing work and the right ammunition along with pre-season shooting practice, deer hunters will be ready to close the deal when a shooter buck walks into range this November.

The first step is to find a competent gunsmith who can accomplish three procedures: adjusting the trigger pull, free-floating the rifle’s barrel and bedding its action.

Most bolt-action rifles, new ones and many used ones, will have a very heavy trigger pull, which makes it practically impossible to shoot accurately.

“The more force it takes to pull the trigger, the more the gun moves. On average, trigger pulls are set at five to six pounds at the factory,” said gunsmith Mike Ezell.

There are two options: adjust the factory trigger or replace it with an after-market trigger.

“The ideal trigger pull is about three pounds, but whether or not that can be done is dictated by the design of the trigger. Some triggers can’t be set that low,” said Ezell. “Safety should always be the first concern when adjusting trigger pull. Installing a good after-market trigger is the best option for everybody’s safety.”

Trigger creep, or the distance the trigger must travel before the gun fires, can be detrimental to accuracy as well. “There has to be some creep, but your rifle should have a smooth, clean trigger pull,” said Ezell.

In recent years, the manufacturers of the most popular brands of hunting rifles have improved the quality and adjustability of their triggers.

The next step to improved accuracy is focused on getting the rifle to shoot more consistent groups of shots on a target. “I’ve never seen a gun that didn’t benefit from free-floating the barrel and glass bedding the action,” said Ezell. “It’s all about barrel harmonics.”

The goal is to minimize the factors that contribute to erratic barrel vibrations, one major cause of inconsistent groups. Barrels vibrate in a circular motion as the bullet travels towards the muzzle, riding the grooves cut into the rifle barrel.

Free-floating a rifle’s barrel is especially important on rifles with wooden stocks, since moisture and humidity can affect where and how the wood touches the barrel, causing inconsistent vibrations. Gunsmiths use files to remove wood in the barrel channel of the forend of the stock, so the barrel “floats.”

Glass bedding of the action should be done at the same time as the barrel work. “You don’t want the action to move in the stock,” said Ezell. “The action should be solidly mounted, without twisting or stress, so it fits like a glove.”

A loose screw will also cause erratic groups. The screw that holds the action in place should be tightened to the correct torque setting. The setting may vary from rifle to rifle, even those of the same make and model. Find the exact tightness of the receiver screw and there will be a noticeable effect on the size and consistency of shot groups.

Ammunition is another important accuracy consideration.

While reloading offers the hunter an opportunity to tailor ammunition to a specific rifle, there are other options that are less expensive and time consuming. Select ammunition with the proper bullet performance on white-tailed deer and try several brands to see what is most accurate in your rifle.

Today, there’s a much wider variety of factory-loaded ammunition available, including cartridges loaded with premium bullets. In the past, premium bullets were only available to hunters who reloaded. Don’t overlook some of the reduced-recoil loads, which sometimes deliver much better accuracy.

New rifles have a break-in period, maybe as much as 100 rounds, before they deliver optimum accuracy.

Proper cleaning of the rifle’s bore from the beginning is imperative. The bore of a new rifle should be cleaned before firing it and cleaned about every 20 shots in the beginning.

Clean the rifle from the breech, never the bore, with a one-piece cleaning rod. If the barrel crown is damaged it will ruin the rifle’s accuracy. Even the smallest nick at the muzzle will allow gases to escape to one side, affecting the bullet’s flight as it leaves the muzzle.

Cleaning supplies should include bore solvent, cotton patches and bronze rifle brushes. Never use stainless steel brushes because they damage the barrel’s rifling.

The final step is sighting in your rifle and practicing at various distances in situations similar to how you will be hunting.

All this attention to detail along with the time and money invested will pay dividends for many years to come. You’ll have an accurate rifle that you can hunt with for a lifetime.

Only the top two seeds from each pool made the AAU championship bracket, and the Lincoln Sparx guaranteed themselves a spot in that bracket by sweeping through pool play to grab a No. 1 seed.

Lincoln opened pool play with a squeaker over 2019

Team Elite - Blakley (Ind.), edging the Indiana squad 39-37. The Sparx concluded pool play in routs, defeating the homestanding Tennessee Starz 52-27 and Ohio Express 59-29.
“Our team really came out shooting great and playing tremendous defense during pool play,” said Lane.

Lincoln scored two victories in the championship bracket before bowing to Jacksonville. The Sparx faced off against the Kentucky Blast, the team they defeated to win the state AAU title and the only other Kentucky team in the nationals, in their first game. It was a close back-and-forth battle between the two state rivals but Lincoln emerged the victor with a 42-35 win.

Although the AAU season is now behind them, the Sparx are taking no breaks, spending their free time preparing for the next season.

“The girls now move on to get prepared for the middle school season which is just a month away,” Lane said.

HOPE 53 Ministries is hosting its second annual softball league to raise money to aid in the building and funding of an orphanage in Port Au Prince, Haiti.
The HOPE 53 league, which opened its season Monday night, will play a six-week season at the Harmon Heights ball fields in Stanford with

The softball league, which will conclude its season with a single elimination tournament, is a volunteer run co-ed church league. It is made up of eight different teams from the Lincoln County area. HOPE 53 Ministries has run the league on a volunteer basis with the help of the Lincoln County Fiscal Court, with 100% of the proceeds going to charity. Ninety percent of the proceeds will go toward aiding the orphanage in Haiti. The remaining 10% will be given to the winner of the tournament to be donated to the charity of their choice.

The HOPE 53 games are played on Monday, Tuesday,

Thursday and Friday nights. There will be concessions available each night, and the proceeds will go to charity.

Cattle management calendar for July

Here are some timely cow and calf management tips for your beef herd. Mid-July is a good time to deworm cattle. Re-implant those calves which were implanted at birth if the type of implant and amount of time indicate. Calves which haven't been vaccinated for blackleg should be. Spraying for flies while cattle are gathered can supplement other fly control methods. Work cattle early in the morning when it is cool and handle them gently to avoid stress.

Remove bulls from the cow herd, no later than the end of the month and keep them away from the cows until next year. This will eliminate summer-born calves and help prevent the oldest heifer calves from becoming pregnant. A short calving season is so beneficial because it helps concentrate labor during the calving season, helps you group calves by age so that it is easier to find a convenient time to vaccinate, castrate, dehorn, etc..., and it provides a more uniform group of calves at market time.

Continue to watch for pinkeye and treat if necessary. Minimize problems by clipping pastures, controlling face flies and providing shade.

Fescue pastures usually are their worst in July and August because it is hot and fescue only grows well when temperature are below 75°. Continue pasture rotation for best performance of the cattle and to not do damage to the pasture grasses. Grass-legume mixtures or warm season grasses will be more productive at this time of year than cool season grasses like fescue and orchardgrass. Extended overgrazing can be detrimental to the stand of both cool season and warm season pastures so don't graze below four inches. Plan for the dry, hot weather of July, August and September by subdividing pastures with electric fencing to create good rotational grazing. Limited access by cattle can result in improved utilization and stretching of the pasture.

Cull less productive cows to stretch your feed supply. Brood cows are the greatest consumers of forage in cow-calf operations. Cows that have lost a calf, are open, or have physical problems can be culled. Consider a free-choice mineral mix containing an ionophore (Rumensin or Bovatec) to improve forage utilization by the cows.

Fall calving cows should be dry and pregnant now. Their nutrient needs are minimal and they can be maintained on fair quality pasture. Get ready for fall calving and plan to have good pasture available for fall calving cows from September 1 through December.

All beef producers should consider these summer management recommendations:

- have forage analyses conducted on spring-cut hay

- be sure that clean cool water is always available, especially in hot weather. Make routine checks of the water supply. Cattle need 15 to 20 gallons of water daily in hot weather.

- check pastures for downed wild cherry trees after storms. Wilted wild cherry leaves are toxic to cattle.

- maintain a weed control program in permanent pastures including clipping, fertilizing and herbicide use.

- start soil testing pastures now to determine their fertilization needs to get them ready for fall growth and to get them ready for next springs growth.

Now is the best time of year to add lime to your hay and pasture fields. Soil test now, then follow our recommendation on liming. It's a good time to spread lime as the lime haulers are less busy and the soil conditions are right to get the lime easily spread.

For more information on cattle and pasture management, contact Dan Grigson at 365-2447.

ABOVE: DRIVING DELAY. Before Monique Brummett can demonstrate her driving skills in the small engines lawn mower driving contest at the Lincoln County Fair, she has to get some assistance from contest judge Matt Anderson after the mower won't start. Looking on are drivers Tra Carey and Isaiah Miller, judge Alan Hubble, and drivers Levi Arn and Davey Brummett. Brummett was one of the first fair-goers to test their skills at the 2012 Fair, with the Tractor Driving and Small Engines Contests the first of the week. Brummett won first place in the Small Engines Senior FFA Division. She was also fifth in Tractor Driving Senior FFA. AT RIGHT: Levi Arn keeps an eye on the course as he takes his turn driving in the Senior 4-H division of the tractor driving contest. Arn won the division which is open to 14 to 19 year olds.

Hours before the gates ever opened on the 2012 Lincoln County Fair, some fair-goers were already spinning their wheels in hopes of winning trophies.

While Lincoln County Fair Board members finished with mowing the fairgrounds and getting set for the opening night, a dozen or so tractor and lawn mower drivers were making their rounds in the field and on the warm-up track in the first event of the week, the Tractor Driving and Small Engines Contest.

Male and female drivers from nine years of age and up could compete for a trophy, ribbon and cash, with the competitors divided into 4-H classes, FFA classes and Adult classes.

The winners in each of the contests, by divisions, were:

Students visit Churchill Downs

The Building Bridges Family Resource Center took over 70 Stanford Elementary students to historic Churchill Downs for an educational, guided walking tour during summer break. Students learned about past Derby winners and the history of the location. They visited the resident Thoroughbred racehorse and his sidekick miniature horse, Winston. While there, they also walked through the property to the paddock and out to the grandstand learning trivia and fun facts along the way.

In the garden terrace, students heard about four famous Kentucky Derby winners and that second place Derby finishing filly Eight Belles is interred in the museum's back garden under a Magnolia tree planted in her honor. Students finished out the day with lunch and fun at Chuck E. Cheese.

Customer Deposits

Text change states when Rate GS deposit may be waived in conjunction with taking service under Rate RS.

Kentucky Utilities Company proposes to change the text of the following electric tariffs: General Service Rate GS, All Electric School Rate AES, Power Service Rate PS, Time-of-Day Secondary Service Rate TODS, Time-of-Day Primary Service Rate TODP, Retail Transmission Service Rate RTS, Fluctuating Load Service Rate FLS, Street Lighting Service Rate ST. LT, Private Outdoor Lighting Rate P.O.LT, Cable Television Attachment Charges Rate CTAC, Curtailable Service Rider CSR10, Curtailable Service Rider CSR30, Excess Facilities Rider EF, Redundant Capacity Rider RC, Supplemental/Standby Service Rider SS, Rider IL for Intermittent Loads, Temporary/Seasonal Service Rider TS, Large Green Energy Rider LGE, Low Emission Vehicle Service Rate LEV, Fuel Adjustment Clause FAC, Demand Side Management Cost Recovery Mechanism DSM, Environmental Cost Recovery Surcharge ECR, and the Terms and Conditions.

Changes to the Terms and Conditions include proposed clarifications on terms and conditions for determining customer rate assignments, as well as when standby or supplemental service must be purchased if customer desires non-firm service.

Although KU is not proposing to change the text of its Fuel Adjustment Clause ("FAC"), other than the correction of a minor typographical error in Paragraph (3), it is proposing to recover certain costs through the FAC to ensure that the correct amounts are collected through base rates and the FAC.

Complete copies of the proposed tariffs containing text changes and proposed rates may be obtained by contacting Lonnie E. Bellar, Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 502-627-4830, or visiting Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

Pleasant View Baptist Church news

By Scena Ann Petrey

Services for Sunday, July 8 began in a wonderful way. Bro. Kyle baptized brothers Garrett and Kaegan Robertson. They are the sons of Joy and Chad Robertson. Following their baptisms, Jeremy Blanton baptized his and Katie’s daughter, Lily. It is wonderful seeing God at work in our midst.

Bro. Jamie Lawrence began his work as our music director by leading the congregation in song. Before the message, Bro. Jamie sang a special to laude God. “The nail-scarred hands that paid the cost - singing freedom’s song. Love the Lord and lift high the Cross” were meaningful words in the song. Jesus gives us freedom from sin and the promise of a home in heaven.

Bro. Kyle’s message continued with the theme of Freedom in Christ and the message Sunday was “Set Free for What?” Galatians 5:13-15 was the vocal passage for the message.

He began the message by reminding us that Abraham Lincoln on Jan. 1, 1863 issued the Emancipation of Proclamation which freed about four million slaves. Their real freedom did not happen until the end of the Civil War. Lincoln told them to enjoy their freedom, but not to abuse it. We receive much the same message through salvation. Enjoy our freedom from sin, but not abuse it!

Mankind cannot experience TRUE freedom without Jesus. Flesh vs. Spirit = War was the message not only in church but in Sunday school also. The old nature of sin in which we are born is constantly in conflict with our new nature that came about when we became Christians.

We have two options in dealing with freedom in Christ. We can be selfish by focusing on what we want and get it when we want it. This is the image portrayed by society. Or we have the option of serving one another in love. The focus in this instance is God.

Bro. Kyle concluded his message by asking a very provoking question. “Are you a sheep or pig?” A sheep falls in a mud hole and he struggles to get out; a pig falls in a mud hole, he is at home. A Christian is going to sin (it is our nature), but a true Christian is not going to be at home in his sin. They want to please God.

Sunday was the one year anniversary of Bro. Kyle’s and Jessica’s serving with us at Pleasant View. Sunday was the first Sunday with Bro. Jamie and Elisha with us. We had reason for two celebrations. Sunday evening’s service was a fellowship at the shelter as a way to celebrate the two occasions.

Our welcome team will have a planning meeting on Sunday, July 29 at 6 p.m.

Next Sunday, July 15, we are planning a brief commissioning service for some full-time missionaries who are members of our church - Zach and Ashley Jacobs and Aaron and Kelly Hogue. The commissioning service will be a time of setting them apart for prayer and spiritual support.

The Lincoln County Fair 2012 brought some notoriety to some of our members. Katelyn McWhorter placed first in the 6 to 12 year old talent show and Gayle Miracle and Heather Petrey won the Mother-Daughter look-alike contest. Congratulations!

We will have the pews and carpet shampooed in the sanctuary and the nurseries in the basement Monday, July 23. We ask that you please not be on this area anytime Monday, July 23 and Tuesday, July 24. Thank you!

Be much in prayer this week for the mission team going to West Virginia. They will be gone from July 15-20.

The food pantry is in need of spaghetti and spaghetti sauce, canned fruits, peanut butter, crackers, tomato sauce, canned meats, canned vegetables (no corn or green beans) and cereal.

We are once again planning the Back-to-School free yard sale for Saturday, Aug. 4. Contact Jennie McWhorter for more information.

The WMU is sponsoring a summer mission project - “Giving a Second Chance.” They are collecting several items that were listed on the bulletin Sunday. These items must be at the church by July 29, and containers are by the water fountain for these items.

Dates to remembers: July 15-20 - West Virginia Mission Trip; July 22-25 - Crossing’s Kid Camp.

Thought for the week: “Hang out with Jesus; He hung out for you.”

LEGAL NOTICE

Child Find for Children with Disabilities in Need of Special Education or 504 Services

Child Find
 The Lincoln County School District keeps educational records in a secure location in each school and Board office.

The Lincoln County School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a postsecondary institution), before disclosing personally identifiable information to an entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA.

For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. The Lincoln County School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request three (3) years after they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Lincoln County School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed. Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavior disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services. Children eligible for 504 services include those children in a public elementary and secondary education program who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student's ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

Children eligible for the State-Funded Preschool program include three- and four-year-old children identified with disabilities and four-year-old children who are at-risk, as defined by federal poverty levels up to 150%. Preschool children eligible for special education must have an Individual Education Plan (IEP) instead of a 504 plan to receive State-Funded Preschool program services.

The Lincoln County School District has an ongoing "Child Find" system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services.

The district's "Child Find" system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district boundaries who may need special education services. The Lincoln County School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child. Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Lincoln County School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The District needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Lincoln County School District collects the information needed. The information the school District collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who lives within the boundaries of the Lincoln County School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education or 504 services, please call or send the information to:

Any information the District collects through "Child Find" is maintained confidentially.

Written Policies and Procedures have been developed which describe the District's requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information and "Child Find" activities. Stanford Church of the Nazarene news

By Buford Edwards II

Sunday morning, Stanford Church of the Nazarene was blessed by the wonderful worship service and challenged by the Word of God as Bro. Buford brought the message on the subject of “Moving North” from Deuteronomy 2. On Sunday night, we gathered back with a special time of singing and testimony offered by the congregation.

Come out Wednesday night for Christian Education Night. Our kids meet weekly and our adult class dubbed, “The Book” club is currently working through the book of Revelation. This week we will start reading in Rev. 18. Join us for Bible study as we continue to discuss “Babylon’s End” as well as the verse of the week: Rev. 18:4 (KJV): And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

Thought for the week: God has called all His people to come out and be separate from the world and “not be partakers of her sins.”

We had a wonderful time of fellowship at the parsonage open house this past Saturday night. Thanks to all who came out and gathered with us!

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their next regular meeting will be Aug. 7.

The Jail Ministry meets every Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and the Nursing Home Ministry the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. For more information, or to learn how to get involved, contact the church and leave a message.

The Men’s Group meets every other month on the second Monday of the month. The next meeting is Aug. 13 at 7 p.m. Plan to come to this meeting. We will be planning an upcoming Rifle Shoot and Cookout tentative for Sept. 1.

Vacation Bible School is Saturday, July 14. This is an all-day event that begins at 9:30 a.m. and will conclude with a cookout that afternoon! All kids of all ages are welcome! For more information, contact Sister Michelle Edwards.

Work continues on Brianna’s Angel House located across the street from the Community Outreach Center on Cutoff Street in Stanford. For more details and to learn how you can contribute to this ministry, contact the church at (606) 365-1260.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, leave a message at the church.

Service times: Sunday school starts at 10 a.m., Sunday morning worship begins at 11 a.m., Sunday evening services at 6 p.m. and Christian Education Night is every Wednesday beginning at 7 p.m.

If you would like more information about our church and events, contact Pastor Buford Edwards at (606) 365-1260 or visit us on the web. Don’t forget to also “like” the Stanford Church of the Nazarene on Facebook to receive updates and an encouraging word.

High school students, graduates should check KEES accounts for accuracy

Kentucky high school students and 2012 graduates should check their Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES) accounts for accuracy.

KEES allows students to earn money for college by getting good grades in high school and for qualifying scores on the ACT or SAT. Students eligible for free or reduced lunches may also earn awards for good scores on Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate exams. KEES is administered by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

To check awards and personal information, students need to use the Zip Access function www.kheaa.com. If they do not already have a Zip Access account, they can easily set one up from the KHEAA home page.

Students may verify their KEES GPA is correct by taking the letter grade for each course taken during the year and converting it to a 4.0 scale on which an A = 4.0, B = 3.0, C = 2.0, D = 1.0, and F = 0. AP and IB course grades receive one extra point of weight in the calculation, making an A = 5.0, B = 4.0, etc. The GPA is calculated by adding all the points together and dividing the total by the number of credits earned during the year.

Students who need to have GPAs or other information corrected should contact their school counselor.

If students do not see any KEES information, they should call the KHEAA College Access Team at (800) 928-8926.

Students do not have to apply to receive their KEES awards. If they attend an eligible college or university, KHEAA will send their award to the school once the school verifies enrollment.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602; or call (800) 928-8926, ext. 6-7372.

Fair sees plenty of 'live action'

At left, 6-year-old Connor Young of Danville does his best impression of the Turtleman during a yell-alike contest Friday that was judged by the Turtleman (Kentucky native Ernie Brown Jr.) and others from Animal Planet's reality television show, "The Call of the Wildman." Hundreds crowded near the entrance to the Lincoln County Fair for the competition. "The Call of the Wildman" follows Brown Jr. as he is sent to various places to remove various animals. Brown Jr. is known for his high-pitched yell and catchphrase, "live action."

Above, a flying machine swoops low over the Lincoln County Fair Friday evening. At right, State Trooper Eric Taylor replaces his hat after falling into a dunking pool at the fair. Members of the Fort Logan Fraternal Order of Police were at the fair all week, getting dunked to raise money for the West Liberty Police Department in eastern Kentucky. Much of West Liberty was destroyed earlier this year when a tornado ripped through the town. Lincoln County Deputy John Williams said the West Liberty Police Department is currently still operating out of a trailer.
